the topics relating to the position, work and responsibility of Methodism for the world's evangelization." The general Conference favored this project, as it affirmed, for the reason that the different Methodist bodies accept in common the Arminian theology, maintain peculiar usages and are engaged in a common work and seeking a common object; and because it believed that such an Ecumencial Council would produce a closer alliance, a warmer fraternity and a fuller co-operation among I have no doubt that where men are these various organizations for the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom in these various organizations for the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom in every part of the earth.

The committee ordered on the subject was appointed afterward by the Board of Bishops, Bishop Simpson being selected as chairman. In the discharge of its duties the committee has laid the matter of the proposed Ecumenical Council before the representative bodies of the Methodist Protestant Church, the Methodist Protestant Church, the Methodist Protestant Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the American Wesleyan Church, the Evangelical Association, the Methodist Church, and the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada and the Wesleyan Methodists of Great Britian. As the response of those bodies has been favorable, a joint meeting of the committees appointed is summoned to meet in Cincinnati, May 6, 1880, in order "to prepare a call for such Ecumenical Conference." Every Methodist organization, in every part of the world, is invited to send a representative to this joint meeting, at which it is expected that the time and place of the proposed Ecumenical Concernence." Every Methodist organization, in every part of the world, is invited to send a representative to this joint meeting, at which it is expected that the time and place of the Proposed Ecumenical Concernence of the Methodist Episcopal Church will then be in session at Cincinnati, at which fraternal delegates will be present from every considerable Methodist body, it will not, probably, be very difficult to secure a gathering sufficiently representative in its character to speak in the name of the committees appointed in the representative in its character to speak in the name of the main, they have followed in the contries. It has not only numbers, but also wealth, intelligence, aggressiveness, a missionary and revival spirit, a growing interest in the cause of education, multiplied facilities for benevolent work, a jestus care for the Christian culture of childhood, and apparently an indomitable purpose to do its full part in the world's evangelization. And yet Mothodism is comparatively a modeque movement, and its organic church life in this country will not reach its centennial till 1884. Such an Ecumenical Conference as is proposed will not only make an era in the history of the denomination, but it will also attract the attention of the whole Christian world. Scholars, thinkers and reformers in all lands will be led to a fresh consideration of the whole Methodist history, work and mission. The following aggressiveness, a missionary and revival which would flow from the proposed meet-

"That such an Ecumenical Conference would be a great blessing to the church and the world can hardly be questioned. It would tend to harmonize and unify the different Methodist organizations, to break down caste and local prejudices, and to bind together in closest fellowships a people essentially one in doctrine, spirit and purpose. It would lead to such adjustments of the missionary work as 10 presultants.

"It would, doubtless, give a great impulse to the cause of temperance and of Sabbath observance, to Sunday schools, and to all the boneficent activities of the church. The relation of Methodism, as a whole, to education, to civil government, to other Christian bodies, and to the world wide mission work, would certainly come to be better understood. In a word, an increase of Christian intelligence, of conscious spiritual power, and of faith in the redemption of the race from the bondage and degradation of vice and immorality, would, without question, be realized. A more earnest consecration, an intenser glow of enthusiasm, a more daring purpose of evangelism, and, consequently, more powerful revivals and larger beneficences in every department of Christian endeavor, would mark the future progress of the church."

It is, of course, understood that such a council would have no ecclesiastical autores. A more cannest consecution of the church."

Rev. Dr. A. C. George, formerly of the Fourth Street M. E. Church here, now of Parkersburg, is taking great interest in the movement for an Ecumenical Council of the Methodist Church, to be held in London, and is a member of the committee appointed at the last General Conference of the church to report on the subject.
The history of the movement up to this time is this:

The General Conference of the Metho dist Episcopal Church in session in Baltimore in May, 1876, adopted a resolution directing the bishops of the church to appoint a committee to take into consideration the subject of an Ecumencial Conference of Methodism to correspond with the different Methodist bodies in every part of the world, and to arrange for a general Methodist Council in order "to consider the topics relating ts the position, work and responsibility of Methodism for the ing a republic. LET US BE THANKPUL.

A PIEKTY and ensily-grown window plant may be obtained in the following manner. Soak a round piece of coarse sponge in warm water until it is thoroughly expanded. After squeezing it about half dry, place in the openings millet, red clover and barley-grass seeds, rice and coats. Hang the sponge in a window where the sun shines a part of the day, and sprinkle it lightly with water every morning for a week. Soon tender leaves will shoot out and, growing rapidly, will form a drooping mass of living green. If regularly sprinkled it will later be dotted with the blossoms of clover.
